

LEADERSHIP DROUGHT

is your company prepared?

THE LEADERSHIP DROUGHT WILL AFFECT EVERY COMPANY BY 2020.

Companies that are prepared for the drought will have a long-term competitive advantage and preserve their businesses for future generations. The key to fortifying your organization is identifying rising and emerging leaders, and sharpening their skills, thereby preparing them for senior leadership roles.

According to an IBM study, companies that invest in future leaders see three times the earnings as companies that don't.

THE COMPLETE LEADER is a leadership development program that rapidly prepares leaders by immersing them in the 25 competencies that are based on timeless principles and 21st century methodologies.

This company-sponsored program focuses on the whole person with a blend of sophisticated talent profiles, on-site facilitated workshops, cohort work and individual accountability. Each program is customized around developing the skills that matter most in your organization.

The Result: Complete Leaders who are prepared for the realities of modern business, but are connected to the values and heritage of the company.

“Our leaders have responded well to the range of learning methods, and there was an overwhelming feeling that the program has given us tools to sustain the change.”
